

Clinical practice guidelines are resources for Solis' network providers, offering the recommendations that are available from evidence-based practice literature. This information and the information contained in the guidelines are not a substitute for a physician or health care professional's clinical judgment and is not always applicable to an individual. Therefore, the physician or healthcare professional and patient should work in partnership in the decision-making process regarding the patient's treatment. Using this information will not guarantee a specific outcome for each patient. None of the information in the guidelines is intended to interfere with or prohibit clinical decisions made by a treating physician or other healthcare professional regarding medically available treatment options for patients. Publication of these guidelines is not a promise or guarantee of coverage. Individuals should review their coverage to determine benefits.

Solis periodically monitors compliance with nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines.
